ALTERNATIVE SPRING BREAK

March 12-16, 2018

FARMWORKER JUSTICE

College students in action with
New York's Farmworkers

A different kind of Spring Break

The Program

Join students from throughout New York State and beyond in supporting justice during The Farmworker Alternative Spring Break.

During the week, you will have the opportunity to travel throughout the western part of New York State as part of a program that incorporates experiential education with lectures and in depth reflection on issues that impact farmworkers.

The program offers an in-depth look at the many facets of farmworker life, while participants learn more about the agribusiness system and the labor protections from which farmworkers are excluded. You will meet and engage in conversation with both farmworkers and advocates.

During the week we will look at different efforts to correct the unjust policies that impact farmworkers.

The theme for the week will be The Meaning of Social Justice

We will examine the question, “How do individuals and groups affect social change?”

We will reflect on the difference between service and social justice and how it feels to be involved in a long-term struggle for systematic change.

Speakers will include farmworkers, an immigration expert, community organizers, RMM staff and others. At the end of the week we will gather and plan different actions that we can engage in on behalf of justice for farmworkers.
